NAZIS IN HOLLAND, DENMARK SURRENDER

Surrender Denmark, Holland, No. Germany

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

PARIS, May 4 (AP)—The Allies liberated Holland and Denmark and won northwestern Germany today, with Gen. Eisenhower announcing German troops there had surrendered to Field Marshal Montgomery, agreeing to lay down their arms at 2 a. m. Eastern War Time tomorrow. This wholesale surrender came two days after the surrender of the German forces in Italy and part of Austria, and left only Norway and minor pockets in Germany, France and Czechoslovakia to be swept up before the great war machine that Hitler built has been brought to a complete halt.

Text of the announcement:

"Field Marshal Montgomery has reported to the supreme Allied commander that all enemy forces in Holland, northwest Germany and Denmark, including Helgoland and the Frisian Islands, have surrendered to the 21st Army group effective at 0800 (double British summer time) tomorrow. This is a battlefield surrender involving the forces now facing the 21st Army group on their northern and western flanks."

The surrender took out of the war the second major grouping of German forces in two days, following closely on the capitulation of a million men in the German armies in northern Italy and western Austria. It leaves, as the only German forces still offering resistance, the armies in southeastern Germany, northern Austria and Czechoslovakia and the garrison of Norway.

(Well informed military circles in London said tonight the surrender of German forces in the north gave the Allies nearly a million more prisoners, leaving fewer than 1,000,000 Nazis still holding out in isolated pockets.)

Eisenhower's headquarters made the announcement at 8:30 p. m. (2:20 p. m., Eastern War Time).

Queen Wilhelmina already has returned to the previously liberated portion of the Netherlands awaiting return to the Dutch capital, and Allied truck convoys and planes have been penetrating German lines for several days to take food to the famished population. In Denmark King Christian X is reported ready to resume his prerogatives with most of the members of Parliament already on hand to take over their duties.

Gen. Eisenhower's announcement ended uncertainty of several hours in which various reports had told of capitulation negotiations on the Danish frontier and the cessation of hostilities in Holland.

The German-controlled Oslo radio had broadcast conflicting reports of a surrender in Holland, and Stockholm reports had insisted that negotiations for a surrender in Denmark and perhaps Norway were in progress.

Eisenhower's announcement said nothing concerning Norway, however.

There have been indications that what is left of the Nazi regime might be fleeing to Norway. The latest of these indications was the blasting of German convoys fleeing toward that country.

Far to the south, the Seventh Army joined the Fifth in the Brenner Pass 20 miles south of captured Innsbruck, completing a 700-mile circuit from Italy through France, Germany and Austria and back into Italy. Salzburg surrendered.

The Third Army besieged Linz.

What Germans survived the catastrophe in the north were attempting a harried land and sea flight toward Norway.

Patch's Seventh Army joined Lt. Gen. Lucian Truscott's victorious Fifth Army at Vipiteno in the Brenner Pass 10 miles south of the snow-heaped Italian frontier.

The Seventh captured Innsbruck, capital of the Tyrol and fourth largest city of Austria. The Cactus (103d) Division received a tumultuous ovation there last night before rolling on south through the Brenner Pass to join the Fifth Army in Italy.

The Germans who had not surrendered north of fallen Hamburg were in chaotic flight by land and sea toward Norway, where the shadowy Doenitz regime may make its last stand.

Planes, tanks and artillery all turned the German flight into a debacle of burning ships and wrecked land transport. Diehard Nazis were driven into the sea.

At Salzburg, the Seventh Army was a dozen miles from Berchtesgaden. The Americans had crashed down the eastern doors of the advertised Alpine redoubt and raced all the way through it.

Gen. Patton's Third Army, invading Austria and Czechoslovakia, laid siege to Linz and neared a junction with the Russians west of Vienna. Moscow dispatches said only 10 miles separated the armies from a meeting that will seal off all the unconquered part of Czechoslovakia.

97,000 Japs Slain in Burma; Rangoon Taken

By Associated Press

Decisive defeat of Jap forces in Burma, climaxed in the capture of the capital of Rangoon with its big port intact, was announced by the Southeast Asia Command today.

Rangoon was found abandoned by the enemy, but an amphibious force which had landed just below the city to participate in the capture went through with the operation as a practice for bigger things to come—perhaps an attack on Singapore.

A communique said 97,000 Japanese had been slain in the Burma Campaign in the last 15 months.

Fall of Prome, another key city on the lower Irrawaddy, 150 miles northwest of Rangoon, also was announced.

The remnants of four Jap divisions, perhaps totaling a little more than 5000 men in all, were cut off in western Burma by the twin Allied successes.

A general Chinese counteroffensive to rout a four-pronged threat to the U. S. Chihkiang airbase threw Jap armies into reverse on every front.

One city was recaptured and 3000 Japs killed in the initial thrust by Chinese including American-equipped airborne troops. Japanese had driven to within 70 miles of the U. S. 14th Air Force Base, 250 miles southeast of Chungking.

Only minor gains were reported against the heavily fortified Naha line in the Okinawa operation which has cost American forces 16,964 casualties, including 2978 dead, compared with 21,000 Japs killed.

American losses were boosted by a new announcement of naval casualties for six weeks—5551, including 1131 killed, 1604 missing, 2816 wounded. This does not include casualties on two light naval units sunk and others damaged in a combined attack last night by suicide planes and boats and high-flying bombers.

Strong U. S. 24th Infantry Division patrols entered Davao city in the southern Philippines and found it apparently virtually deserted by Jap troops and its prewar colony of 17,000 Jap civilians.

YD Captures Von Kleist, Marshal Who Took France

WITH U. S. THIRD ARMY, May 4—Nazi Field Marshal Paul Ludwig Ewald von Kleist, commander of the Wehrmacht army group A and planner of the German invasion of Poland in 1939 and the campaign of 1940 in France, has surrendered to the 26th (Yankee) Division of the Third Army. He was taken April 25 but the capture was kept secret until today.

MARSHAL VON KLEIST

Von Kleist drove into American lines in a natty automobile accompanied by his wife and his military aide, Capt. Von Seydlitz, a cousin of the famous German general.

Von Kleist's car held 25 handbags and plenty of gasoline if he had wanted to escape. But he said he had decided to "surrender to the Americans now so I might be spared the embarrassment of being captured later, in the presence of common, retreating German soldiers."

The 63-year-old field marshal, credited with smashing the Maginot line, was trembling from the use of so many drugs. His belongings were found crammed with hypodermic needles and morphine.

His home was at Mitterfels.

The German marshal—the equivalent in rank of an American five-star general—was found by a couple of infantry privates with his bags already packed. At first he refused to surrender. A gun pointed at his head changed his mind.

While he was talking to the Americans, Von Kleist sent his wife into the kitchen to brew some tea. She returned with the news there was no water, and, anyway, she continued, there had been no tea in the house for days. The marshal satisfied himself with a piece of white bread produced by the American privates, and ate heartily, while he marveled that enlisted men should have such fare.

About Hitler, Von Kleist said: "I believe only what I read in the German newspapers."

The marshal said he would be the first Junker of his family ever to spend the night in captivity. And, he added, his family has been fighting wars for 300 years.

Doenitz Gives Norway Orders

LONDON, May 4 (AP)—An appeal to the German people to keep calm "in the last hours of the war' was broadcast today by the Wilhelmshaven radio, one of the last continental transmitters still in Nazi hands.

Both the Bremen and Wilhelmshaven radios announced Grand Adm. Karl Doenitz, Germanys new Fuehrer, had conferred with Josef Terboven, Nazi commissioner in German-occupied Norway, and Werner Best, German ambassador to Denmark.

The broadcasts said only that Doenitz gave the two men "personnel orders for the future."

Tito Troops Occupy Italian Fiume, Pola

LONDON, May 4 (AP)—Yugoslav Partisans have completely occupied Fiume and the former Italian naval base of Pola at the tip of the Istrian peninsula, Marshal Tito announced today.

Fiume fell after 11 days of fierce street fighting. Three German divisions and several additional units were destroyed.

3d Army Frees N.E. Fliers

By EDWARD D. BALL

WITH U. S. THIRD ARMY IN GERMANY, May 4 (AP) — The Third Army found 21,000 Allied prisoners, including 4100 American airmen, today, in a woods five miles south of Braunau, abandoned by the Germans after being marched into the Bavarian redoubt.

All were hungry and suffering the effects of several days in the woods without shelter.

The Americans appeared, for the most part, in fair physical condition. Many were from New England.

The starved and diseased Russians, Poles and Czechs were in a pitiful state. A number of bodies of their comrades who died after the Germans fled were scattered through the woods.

The prisoners, reached by the 13th Armored and 80th Infantry divisions, had been marched out of a number of camps all over Germany as the Russian and western Allies approached each other.

"Some of us have been in six or eight different camps in recent weeks," said Sgt. Louis Enloe, Belle, Mo.

"Most of the time we have been on the march with little or nothing to eat," added Sgt. Clarence C. Asher, Washougal, Wash.

Americans, desiring to notify their families of their safety, scribbled their names on frayed envelopes, cardboard ration boxes, labels and other scraps of paper. The fragments included the following names of New England air crew sergeants:

Manas Manasian, 17 Washington st., Providence, R. I.; James T. Capelos, Peabody, Mass.; James H. Thornton, 290 Humphrey st., New Haven, Ct.; John P. Moran, Holyoke, Mass.; Arzemien Alexander, Pawtucket, R. I.; James T. Makinlay, Jr., Lynn, Mass.; Warren F. Davis, Waban, Mass.; Roger E. Hughes, 14 Gloucester st., Boston; Thomas Joyce, Chelsea, Mass.; Edward Carbonneau, Lawrence, Mass.; Ruel Stevenson, Brockton, Mass., and Clayton H. Kahler, Brockton, Mass.

Many Beaten In Rome Riots

ROME, May 4 (AP)—Many persons were badly beaten today in a free-for-all fight between a crowd singing Communist songs and a group of demonstrating Italian soldiers and students who demanded Italy retain the province of Venezia Giulia.

Tension had spread in Rome over disposition of the province, which includes the Adriatic ports of Trieste and Fiume and the peninsula of Istria, following entry by Marshal Tito's Yugoslav troops. The province was transferred from Austria to Italy after the last war.

Rundstedt Tells Why Nazis Lost

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

WITH U. S. SEVENTH ARMY, May 4 (AP)—Field Marshal Karl Gerd von Rundstedt, admitting complete German defeat, said today he regarded air power as the most decisive factor in the Reich's military failure.

Wearing his marshal's uniform with the Knight's Cross of the Iron Cross and other decorations, the former German commander in the west received correspondents in a chateau where he is held prisoner.

Von Rundstedt said these were the other factors in Germany's defeat, in order:

1—Lack of fuel, both oil and gasoline.

2—Destruction of the railway system.

3—Germany's loss of raw materials areas such as Romania.

4—Smashing of the home industrial sections such as Silesia and Saxony by air attacks.

Bowing stiffly to the correspondents, Von Rundstedt seated himself on a big soft and replied to every question.

He said in his opinion Hitler is dead, but not by suicide. He expressed belief the Fuehrer died in Berlin.

Nervously puffing at an unlighted cigaret and in crisp Prussian tones, he then said:

1—American generals are surprisingly good, as is Marshal Montgomery of the British Army. They have learned much since the First World War.

2—The D-Day invasion came as a surprise, both regarding the exact time and locality, although the locality had figured among German calculations.

3—The western Allied armies made as successful a war of movement on Germany as the Reich made on France in 1940.

4—The so-called Von Rundstedt counter-offensive in the Ardennes last December was ordered by Hitler with the field marshal the scapegoat. It was Germany's last and only chance to avert disaster. It would have succeeded if supplies and reserves could have been brought up as quickly as Gen. Patton could move up from the south.

5—Gearmany fights on solely because all utterances, both in the east and west, indicate that it is a fight for existence.

6—Germany would have won in 1940 except for British certainty that the United States would help.

After answering the first question regarding Hitler, von Rundstedt commented:

"Before I say anything else I must begin with t personal remark. I'm not a prisoner by choice. I was taken by force of arms from a military hospital. I should never have yielded myself up voluntarily. That would have been the most despicable thing an officer could do. I would have resisted, weapon in hand."

Regarding Hitler's death, he said he had not heard the radio for days since the electric current had been cut off at his hospital, but:

"I feel satisfied, however, that the Fuehrer is dead. Either he was wounded and died as a result of these wounds and possibly even fell fighting, or he died under the impact of the pressure of events upon his soul.

"Never, never, will I believe he put an end to his own life. That was not in accordance with his nature."

Nazi Big Shots Can't Be Found

By STANLEY CHIPMAN

A suspicion that Hitler and his top-ranking Nazi cohorts have staged one of the most carefully planned vanishing acts in history was growing rapidly today. T he bagging of prisoners, although rich in high army officers of the Junker t radition, still had not turned up one of the political leaders sought for war guilt. Hitler SS men had kept their guns at the German army's back. Was it primarily to give the lords of Nazidom adequate time to save their skins?

The Germans gave Laval a plane and two pilots so he might try to save his skin in the flight to Spain. Hitler, Goering, Goebbels, Himmler, Von Ribbentrop and all the others of the Nazi party's nefarious upper strata could have commanded the facilities of an air fleet, ships and—most important—huge sums of money.

Is their money talking for them somewhere far from Germany? It could be. The impressive collectiveness of their disappearance has led some observers to believe they will all be found in the same pig pen when the mystery is solved.

The Russians have consistently declared their belief Hitler and Goebbels did not commit suicide. They pointed out the announcement by radio came from one of the most artful liars in the world of propaganda—Deputy Propaganda Minister Hans Frietsche, Goebbel's highest subordinate.

Where is the tight little band who plunged the world into chaos?

The Soviets have been going over Berlin rock by rock. They haven't found any of the Nazis' most verminous leaders under anything yet. Nor have they found the slightest trace or indication of the crew.

Robert Ley, infamous leader of the Labor Front, announced to the German people March 1 that the "crisis" had come. There has been nothing from him since.

Heinrich Himmler was reported to have taken over for Hitler in the last days but Adm. Doenitz emerged as the Fuehrer's replacement. The German radio mentioned Himmler April 24 and nothing has been heard of him since.

Did the gang fly to a well prepared hideout in Portugal? The Portuguese press was quick to shed tears of lament when it was announced Benito Mussolini had been executed. And Benny had been Adolf's partner in crime for a long while.

Martin Bornmann, Nazi party representative in the war cabinet, ordered all Germans to "remain at their posts" April 1. Then he apparently left his. He is one of the mysteriously missing crew.

SS Brigadier Otto Thierrack, who was Hitler's minister of justice and who announced nearly two weeks ago that 500 death sentences were officially carried out in Germany during 1944, is another of the vanished. He has made no announcement since that date.

It has been a matter of weeks, too, since anyone has heard of any announcement by Fritz Sauckel, who organized mass deportations from German-occupied countries. Sauckel assembled all his Quislings for a pep talk nearly two months ago. Then he apparently took a powder for himself.

Reich Youth Leader Arthur Azmann, one of the party fanatics, is also among the missing. So is Alfred Rosenberg, editor of the Voelkischer Beobachter, one of Hitler's "brains." And so is Earl Frank, SS general, who tried to throw a new horror into the war picture by announcing organization of the fantastic Werewolves.

Another on the roster of the vanished is SS Police Gen. Kaltenbrunner, the big Gestapo man.

All of these received prominent mention on the Berlin radio and in the German press when the going was good. One of their most notorious sounding boards, William Joyce, the British traitor, who broadcast their praises and their regime as "Lord Haw Haw," is much sought by the Soviets. The British want him even more. But no one has been able to find him, either.

And today, as the Associated Press reported from London, there is a conflict of opinion even with regard to the whereabouts of the new Fuehrer, Adm. Doenitz, the man who was picked to preside over Germany's death as a military power.

Hitler Chancellery in Flames

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, May 4 (AP)—The chancellery of the Third Reich in the Wilhelmstrasse has failed to yield the body of Hitler and now the building is burning, a Red Star dispatch from the German capital said today.

The disclosure that the chancellery where Hitler had his offices was ablaze indicated it might be difficult ever to prove the Fuehrer committed suicide with Propaganda Minister Goebbels, as the Germans reported.

The statement that the bodies were not found in the building, however, indicated it had been searched, and strengthened the theory if Hitler did kill himself it was not in the chancellery.

Soviet correspondents reported how they, with Soviet soldiers, entered the building and found dead German machine-gunners adorned with Iron Crosses.

"Hitler's chancellery is hot," said a Red Star reporter. "The fire is getting closer. The floor is burning and at any moment will fall. In the smoke and flame it is impossible to see much."

Hermann Goering's air ministry likewise was ablaze. The dispatch said "it is impossible to get into it, but the gigantic shelter is intact."

Flames still licked at other buildings, and in the Tiergarten trees crackled and swayed in heat blasts.

Izvestia's correspondent said: "I have been asking the question, 'Where is Hitler?' of German prisoners. They all answer 'Hitler and Goebbels committed suicide'."

Looting was rampant.

There was no way of telling what the population of Berlin was at the moment, but unofficial estimates put it at not much under 5,000,000 for the metropolitan area.

The Red Army set up bakeries for the people and put thousands of prisoners to work cleaning up the streets.

Red Star correspondents Lt. Cols. Leonid Vysokostrovsky and Pavel Troyanovsky gave graphic pictures of Berlin after the surrender.

"Ruins, craters, smashed streets, street cars on their sides, fresh graves, German bodies still not buried, white flags, throngs of gloomy, starving inhabitants. Such is Berlin today," they wrote.

The Wilhelmstrasse, the street which was lined by government buildings, was piled high with surrendered German arms and down it were moving columns of German prisoners.

"One can't walk or ride on Unter den Linden," they added. "Nine rows of fallen trees were placed across it in one place with sandbags stacked behind them. Through this we saw red flags flying from the Soviet and French embassies."

Dispatches said the Reichstag still was smoking, with the roofs of the halls caved in but the skeleton of the cupola still standing and atop it the Red banner.

The Academy of Art near the embassies was reported damaged.

"I saw an old German digging in ruins," said one Izvestia correspondent, "and asked what he was looking for. 'My family,' he replied. Soon 10 persons came crawling from the ruins."

The Russian reporters said registration of Nazis had commenced in Berlin and Russian experts were working night and day to get gas, water, light and communication services working. Soviet specialists were being landed at Templehof airdrome to push repairs.

Last 'Bun Train' Runs in London

LONDON, May 4 (AP)—"Bun special" trains, which have provided canteen service for Londoners sleeping in subway shelters, ran for the last time last night as the city continued preparations for closing down those havens now that the danger of air raids is ended.

Impromptu parties were held in some shelters as occupants gave up bunks they had retained for a long time. At Holburn station the last cup of tea delivered by the "bun special" was sipped ceremoniously by Mrs. George Ramsay, 72, who had slept there since 1940.

Reds Free Many U. S. PWs in Germany

MOSCOW, May 4 (AP)—The U. S. military mission said today from 2000 to 3000 Allied war prisoners were liberated near Neubrandenburg (Stalag 2-A) by Marshal Rokossovsky's drive to the Baltic and that it understood many more were freed at Camp Barth (Stalag-Luft 1) near Stralsund.

Big 4 Agreement Seen To Prevent Deadlocks

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4 (AP)—The Big Four were reported near agreement today on major changes in the Dumbarton Oaks plan for a world organization designed to keep peace. This accord was regarded by officials of the 46 United Nations in conference here as a long step toward preventing deadlocks even after Foreign Commissar Molotov sets out for Moscow, as he is now expected to do next week.

Secretary of State Stettinius has told friends he is extremely pleased with the progress made thus far in his talks about amending the Dumbarton Oaks Charter with Molotov, Foreign Secretary Eden and Foreign Minister Soong.

There was no evidence that the Big Four intend to favor any amendments which would alter the basic Dumbarton Oaks idea of concentrating in a security council authority to use armed forces to smack down trouble-making nations of the future.

But there are signs that the council may be permitted to recognize regional defense pacts which automatically would produce help for an attacked nation while the council was going through the process of deciding on longer-range measures.

Stettinius held last night the latest of a series of conferences with Molotov, Eden and Soong, going over amendments which the Big Four have in mind—most of them believed to have been put forward by Britain and the United States.

One official said as the two-and-a-half hour session broke up that very considerable progress had been made and other meeting would be held today.

Three members of the Senate Naval Committee—Byrd of Virginia, Eastland of Mississippi and Tobey of New Hampshire—along with Sen. Capehart of Indiana, presented personally at the Big Four meeting their proposals for a trusteeship system which would allow the United States to retain control of strategic islands in the Pacific.

Earlier, Com. Harold E. Stassen met with representatives of the British, French, Chinese and Russian delegations of the British, French, Chinese and Russian delegations to seek a formula on territorial trusteeships. He said afterward there may agreement this week-end.

Planning Board Gets Revision

Placement of the City Planning Department under a board of nine members, all but the chairman to serve without pay, was recommended to the city council committee on ordinances today by members of 18 professional organizations.

The chairman, it was suggested, should serve at a rate of $5 an hour, not to exceed $3000 in any one year. The board would elect an executive director with approval of the mayor, at a salary of $7000 a year.

The planning board would include architects, engineers and realtors, as well as the mayor, a member of the city council and the commissioner of public works.

Joseph D. Leland is chairman of the group making the suggestions.

Kennedy Sees Winning Soviet Trust Tough Job

John F. Kennedy, one-time Navy lieutenant in command of a PT boat, decorated for bravery in action, is covering the San Francisco United Nations Conference from a GI viewpoint

By JOHN F. KENNEDY

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4—The stormy sessions of the first week have done much to clear the air. They have shown clearly the tremendous differences between the viewpoints of Russia on the one hand and the U. S. and Great Britain on the other.

The extent of these differences has come as a shock to many people who had been lulled into a feeling that all was well by the reports of complete agreement that came out of the conferences at Teheran and Yalta. There, any signs of dissension were carefully concealed on the theory that they would give aid and comfort to the enemy.

That time is over. Americans can now see that we have a long way to go before Russia will entrust her safety to any organization other than the Red Army.

This being true, it means that any organization drawn up here will be merely a skeleton. Its powers will be limited.

The hope is, however, that this skeleton will put on flesh as time goes by.

1,000,000 Nazis Clark's Problem

15TH ARMY GROUP HEADQUARTERS, ITALY, May 4 (AP)—A German military delegation appeared today before Gen. Clark to receive orders regarding immediate disposition of hundreds of thousands of unconditionally surrendered Nazis troops in Italy.

Gen. Friodolin von Senger und Etterlin, tall, haughty Prussian commander of the vanquished 14th Panzer army, led the five-man delegation into the American general's cottage in a grove on the bank of a river.

The Germans surrendered Wednesday, nearly 1,000,000 of them according to Field Marshal Alexander.

Hub Wife Wed 46 Years, One 5 Mos., Freed by Court

Marriage ties lasting from five months to 46 years were severed in Suffolk Probate Court today by Judge John V. Mahoney in granting divorces to four Greater Boston women.

Claiming she was deserted in 1927 by Frank A. Stieler of Branford, Ct., Mrs. Adella B. Stieler of Commonwealth ave., Allston, ended 46 years of married life by obtaining an uncontested decree.

The shortest marriage was that of Gladys Broad of Wyoming st., Roxbury, who testified she was married to Myron Broad last November. She said he told her shortly after the ceremony that he did not want to be married.

She charged Broad struck her on three occasions during the two months they lived together.

Mrs. Anne F. Carroll of Silver st., South Boston, charged William J. Carroll with cruelty and abuse. She said he punched her and "gave me two beautiful black eyes."

Mrs. Florence M. Holland of Waltham charged that Arthur J. Holland of Boston deserted her in 1935 after 18 months of married life.

Judge Mahoney took the uncontested divorce petition of Margaret M. Griffith of Cushing ave., Dorchester, under advisement. He ordered a check made of records at the Ambassador Hotel, Atlantic City, N. J., to determine when Mrs. Griffith and Francis W. Griffith last lived together.

She charged Griffith with cruelty and abuse.

Sob for Joy at Yank's Reunion

Sarge Meets Mom in Czech Home Town

By HAL BOYLE

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS IN GERMANY, May 3 (Delayed) (AP)—An American sergeant's reunion with his mother brought tears to the eyes of everybody in the little Czech border town of Barnau. It made a major, a captain and a private with him weep, too.

Maj. Dan Riddle of Marksville, La., had to go to Barnau and with him went Capt. Harry Grier of Oxford, Pa., and a driver, Pvt. Tom Kearns of Hartford, Ct.

"May I go along, too?" asked Sgt. Harry Alden of Pelham, N. Y. "My family used to have a summer home there."

So they took him along, and as they rode toward Barnau the quiet, black-haired sergeant told them his story—how he was born in Nuernburg of German-Jewish parents, how he went to the United States in 1938, became a citizen and joined the American Army.

"Every year before 1938 I used to go to Barnau in the summer," he said. He became more excited as the jeep neared the little town.

"He remembered every turn in the road and every tree and hill," said Kearns. "He even showed us where he used to bicycle on Sundays with his girl friend."

"There it is! There is my house," the sergeant called out. He leaped from the jeep, ran up the steps and pounded on the front door.

A little old woman opened the door and greeted him casually and then peered closer.

"It is very queer," she said, uncertainly," but you look very much like my grandson."

"When she really found out Alden was her grandson she could hardly believe it," Kearns said. "She kept pounding him on the arm to see if he was real."

The sergeant learned that his mother was in town, helping the American troops, so Aiden and his friends drove on into Barnau.

"The news had spread fast," said Capt. Grier. "Practically every window had someone in it, loking at us."

Maj. Riddle saw two women—one tall and stately—walking down the street, and on impulse, he backed the jeep nearer to them.

"The tall woman was Harry's mother, and when she saw him she cried out, 'Hans! Mein junge!' and came running with open arms," said Kearns. "And that's when the crying started."

Everybody joined in because all the townspeople knew about Harry from his mother. She led her son up and down the streets, calling to the neighbors:

"I told you I had a son in the American Army. See? Here he is."

Harry's biggest surprise was to hear his mother speak in perfect English.

"She began to study the language after I left in 1938," he said, "because she wanted to be able to talk to me when I returned. She also learned Swedish because my sister, Rose Marie, is in Sweden."

Harry's mother, who is German, was subjected to racial discrimination because she married a Jew. Before bombings destroyed her home in Nuernburg she had given shelter to a number of Jewish refugees from the Gestapo.

When the American approached Barnau, she persuaded the local Volksturmers to lay down their arms and she went out and contacted the American patrols herself, leading them in to show there would be no resistance. They subsequently hired her as an interpreter.

"Her biggest worry," grinned Maj. Riddle, "was whether Harry was married. She had heard that all Americans marry at a very early age. She asked Harry continually if he had a wife yet."

Harry is still a bachelor.

FREED—Charging she was deserted after 18 months of married life, Mrs. Florence M. Holland of Waltham, today was granted an uncontested divorce in Suffolk Probate Court from her husband, Arthur.

Tobin Vetoes Evidence, Recount Bills

Governor Tobin sent vetoes on two bills to the House and Senate today, opposing enactment of a measure reducing the margin of voting percentage under which state-wide recounts would be ordered and of another relating to the admissibility of certain documents as evidence.

Discussing his veto of the recount measure, Governor Tobin said:

"Under the present law, when petitions are filed for state-wide recounts, they are held until the official taublation of votes by the Governor and council. If there appears to be a difference of 1 per cent or less of the total vote cast for an office or referendum, the secretary of state orders a recount. This bill reduces the percentage to ½ of 1 per cent. In my opinion the present law represents a reasonable margin for error."

In his veto of a proposed change in the la wregarding inspection of documents used by witnesses to refresh recollection and their admissibility as evidence, the governor declared:

"This legislation would change the common law established in the Commonwealth by judicial decision for almost a century. It has been the practice in recent years for the Legislature to refer proposals for judicial changes to the Judicial Council for study. This bill was not referred to the Judicial Council and should not be enacted."

Fore River Workers Halt Union Election

A temporary injunction restraining the officers and board of delegates of the Independent Union of Fore River Workers from conducting an election of officers next Monday through Friday was granted today by Judge Harold P. Williams in Suffolk Superior Court.

Harold C. Ritchie and other workers, charged that the 14,000 union members had not been given sufficient legal notice of the election and that voting machines, which made no provision for sticker candidates, were to be used.

TRAIN KILLS PASTOR, 79

Meat Hunters Storm Hub Markets in Vain

The quest for fresh meats has reached such proportions in Greater Boston that crowds started mobbing Faneuil Hall markets in the early hours this morning despite pouring rain.

Thousands were doomed to disappointment, for only two stalls had beef for sale and this was restricted to pot roasts and top and bottom round. There was very little lamb anywhere in the many stores lining the district and not even one ounce of pork.

All the poultry stalls had signs up reading, "No chickens," or else, "No retail," most of their supplies being sent to hospitals, hotels and institutions.

But the crowds kept coming and increased by the hour.

Most of them were shoppers from surrounding suburbs who extended their meat search to Boston after canvassing their own neighborhoods when their corner butcher failed them.

They crowded 10 and 20 deep around the few stalls with meats on display and waited patiently to be served by the harried butchers. As soon as a side of beef was brought out, it was all bought before the cutting was finished. One firm which has beef because it does its own slaughtering placed a few hundred pounds on sale at 9:30 and it vanished within a half hour.

The majority of the stores had nothing for sale but frankfurts, sausages, headcheese and the like. The poultry marts displayed empty racks and a few cartons containing chicken livers.

Butter, cheese and eggs, however, were abundant and supplies of fruits and vegetables were ample.

There were also plentiful displays of haddock, cod, mackerel and other fish, but the public spurned these, preferring to go home empty-handed if meat could not be found.

Even corned beef sold at a premium, with housewives jostling to get at the counters for the privilege of buying just a few pounds.

U. S. Inspectors Seize N. Y. Meat Trucks

NEW YORK, May 4 (AP)—City and War Food Administration meat inspectors today blocked 32 entrances to the city in a search for black market meat and seized six trucks containing some carcasses without required government inspection stamps.

Leslie D. Horn, WFA compliance officer, announced the search and seizure, which was confirmed by Mayor LaGuardia. The mayor said the city departments of markets and health, acting with the WFA, would conduct "check-ups from time to time."

The trucks were stopped at the New York exit of the Holland tunnel, at the Lincoln tunnel and the George Washington bridge. The meat was taken to the federal government warehouse.

A spokesman for the OPA regional office here indicated that government agency had no knowledge of the seizures.

Sawtelle Raps Reilly's Record

Executive Councilor John J. Sawtelle of Boston asserted today that his refusal to confirm the appointment of Boston Fire Commr. William A. Reilly as head of the Metropolitan District Commmission was based on his belief Reilly was neither a competent engineer nor administrator.

"If he were a competent administrator and had co-ordinated his department efficiently," Sawtelle added, "it would never have ignored, neglected or failed to correct the deplorable conditions which resulted in the Cocoanut Grove tragedy, the loss of 500 lives and lifelong sorrow for thousands."

Sawtelle and a fellow Democratic councilor, Joseph P. Clark, Jr., of Fall River, had joined four Republican members in opposing confirmation of the Reilly appointment, first submitted 10 weeks ago.

Sawtelle's statement today came in answer to Reilly's demand for a public explanation of the reason for the council opposition, issued after he had requested Gov. Tobin Wednesday to withdraw the appointment.

Sawtelle said he agreed with Comr. Reilly that it was the Governor's privilege to appoint department heads, but pointed out that the council was elected to prevent Governors from making unwise decisions since "none of us is infallible."

"It is my honest opinion that Mr. Reilly is not qualified for this position," he declared. "That does not prove I am a renegade Democrat, but it does prove I am not spineless or a 'yes' man."

Sawtelle declared he had high personal regard for Reilly, but that he believed the MDC chairman should be an engineer capable of directing and administering important existing and postwar projects.

"The welfare of the great Metropolitan area depends on that," he continued, "The jobs and security of thousands of persons also depend on it, and by no stretch of the imagination is Fire Comr. William A. Reilly a competent engineer, or is there any evidence of his capacity to provide the leadership the State and city have the right to expect from the chairman of the MDC."

After citing the Cocoanut Grove tragedy, Sawtelle declared:

"Mr. Reilly may not have been legally responsible for this disaster but there is a moral and inescapable obligation that argues powerfully against promoting him to a position of wider responsibility. For these reasons I cannot conscientiously, nor in fairness to those I represent, approve him for this appointment."

Declaring he had given the Governor many opportunities to submit a better appointee, Sawtelle suggested that the Governor choose a competent engineer for the post.

He named Police Com. Thomas F. Sullivan, Boston Public Works Com. William Morrissey, his predecessor George Hyland, and Maj. William Drummey of the Army engineers, who handled sanitation and other engineering problems in the Persian Gulf Command, as Boston men more suitable for the appointment.

Sawtelle also explained his opposition to the Governor's appointment of former Worcester County Sheriff H. Oscar Rocheleau as director of the division of fisheries and game on the ground that Rocheleau was not qualified. The council rejected the Rocheleau appointment by a six to three vote Wednesday and Gov. Tobin said he would resubmit the name next week.

No Butter Point Cut, Shoup Says

Eldon C. Shoup, regional head of OPA, indicated in a formal statement today there will be no immediate reduction of points on butter.

Terming the current butter supply "extremely deceptive," he predicted it will soon be exhausted.

He said:

"Already the amount which must be set aside during May and June for the armed forces, lend-lease and other government agencies is running larger than production at the moment. Certain cities along the Atlantic seaboard are already short on butter and representatives of Massachusetts retailers agree the situation will be repeated here."

Cab-Leap Injury Verdict Upheld

A Suffolk Superior Court jury award of $6280 to Miss Della Flaherty, 32, of Ruthven st., Roxbury, for personal injuries suffered in an unusual taxicab accident nearly six years ago, has been upheld by the Supreme Judicial Court.

Miss Flaherty suffered a fractured skull and permanent facial injuries when she jumped from a cab in Roslindale May 15, 1939, after she claimed the operator had ignored her cries of "fire" after she discovered the back seat in flames.

Defendants were John J. Collins, South Boston taxicab owner, and his brother, Cyril, operato of the cab.

Sues to Evict Judge-Tenant

The acuteness of the housing shortage in Lynn was emphasized today when one judge, in district court, was asked to evict another judge from the dwelling property of a soldier.

Sgt. Robert V. Ingalls of Ft. Devens asked Justice Ralph W. Reeve to order Special Justice Israel Cherry to vacate a house in Salem st., Swampscott, which the soldier purchased last December.

Judge Reeve was obliged to refuse, because of a technicality. Ingalls, in serving Judge Cherry with an eviction notice after buying the house, had neglected to see that the 90-day period was to be so worded as to end on a rental payment day.

To comply with the law he must now go through the routine of servnig a correctly worded notice.

Special Justice Cherry was not in court. His wife testified they had been trying to find another house but without success. They had even gone so far as to place some furniture in storage, she said.

IWO JIMA FLAG STAMP

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—A 3-cent stamp featuring Associated Press Photographer Joe Rosenthal's famous Iwo Jima flag-raising picture will be issued soon.

Soviet Grab of Rule Over Berlin Looms

By DAVID SENTNER

Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, May 4—Is Berlin to become another Sovietized capital in Communist Europe? If not, why did the Soviet Union insist on withdrawal behind the Elbe of American troops as they surged on the Reich capital?

And—48 hours after Moscow announced capture of Berlin—why is not the three-way Allied commission, including Britain and the United States, administering the capital as per the "Big Three" agreement?

Military and State Department spokesmen today glumly evaded the answers, which can be supplied accurately only by Stalin.

However, on the eve of V-E Day, many members of Congress are deeply perturbed concerning the situation. Pointing out how Russia has established Communist-dominated provisional governments in Austria, Poland, Yugoslavia, Romania and other Red-liberated territory, Sen. Bushfield (R.) of South Dakota said:

"It looks as if the Soviet Union is about to set up another sphere of influence in Berlin. Whether the United States and Britain are to be invited in at all—or merely as observers—remains to be seen.

"It is difficult to understand why the Russians rejected our military help which would have made their job of taking Berlin considerably less costly to them."

Rep. Wasielewski (D.) of Wisconsin said he had been authoritatively informed several weeks ago American patrols reached Potsdam, suburb of Berlin, and were ordered back following a protest from the Russians.

Despite the Yalta agreement for tripartite administration of liberated areas, Rep. Wasielewski declared, Anglo-American participation in the affairs of freed territory had been ignored by Russia. He cited the setting up of a Soviet puppet government in Vienna as the latest violation.

"On the contrary we have, for our part, wholeheartedly made available to Russia every assistance and know-how at our command," he said. "Even in Italy, where there are no Soviet military forces operating, we conferred with Soviet representatives before accepting unconditional surrender of Nazi troops.

"To date, the Soviets have failed to reciprocate in kind and have also denied our military experts' entrance to Russia, to her war fronts and to her war plants.

"Co-operation cannot be a one-way street. Either the State Department should insist the Soviets live up to the Yalta agreement or we should renounce it."

Berlin Teletype Tells How Big Shots Fled Like Rats

MOSCOW, May 4 (AP)—Russian correspondents entering the underground headquarters of the German General Staff in Berlin said they found evidence that the officers left but one telegrapher to answer calls when they fled.

At the machines where he worked they found the ribbons bearing his last messages which told the story of the capital's last hours. Some of them were:

"I have an urgent message for Ulm."

"Very sorry, we are not transmitting any more. You see, in a few hours we shall be closing down."

"Is there nobody in Berlin who could be sent with a dispatch?"

"No."

"My God, what is happening?"

"We've fought ourselves to a standstill."

"Here's an urgent message for Gen. Wiestel."

"I told you we are not accepting anything else."

"I should like to know what your situation is."

"Fine as ever. If you could see me now. I am sitting here in full uniform with my greatcoat and tommygun. They have all rotted. I am the last. Spirits below zero. There is a noose around my neck."

"Have you got contact with Prague?"

"Idiot, of course not. I'm telling you I am the last. Ivan is here on my neck. I'm going to cut the wires. Lord, what we have come to? It's all over with Germany. Ivan is at the door. I'm cutting the wires."

Bennington, Vt., Gale Kills Man

BENNINGTON, Vt., May 4 (AP)—One man was killed and damage running into thousands of dollars was caused by wind of gale force, colloquially known as a "shirkshire," which swept the Bennington area today.

Harry Decker, 37, of New York city, superintendent of a carnival preparing to open here Saturday, was struck on the head by a tent-pole and killed.

Trees were blown down, chimneys bowled over, slate and shingles torn from roofs and the community littered with broken branches and debris.

Once every four or five years this area is swept by a "shirkshire," which travels from the mountains on the east side across the valley.

Power service was interrupted and telephone service impaired.

Mystery Flash Was Meteor

PHILADELPHIA, May 4 (AP) —The mysterious flash of light reported seen in the Middle Atlantic States early today was probably a "bolide, the largest kind of meteor," Dr. Roy K. Marshall, director of the Fels Planetarium at Franklin Institute, said.

Dr. Marshall based his statement on reports coming to him from persons in Philadelphia and vicinity who saw the flash at approximately 3:45 a. m. and who felt tremors which shook buildings.

A meteor of this kind travels at the rate of from five to 20 miles a second, Dr. Marshall said. It may be as large as 1000 tons and 10 feet in diameter.

It pushes the air ahead of it, producing waves of shocks with resulting loud explosive noises, he said. The inside of the ball is very cold and the outside highly heated, and this difference in temperature causes the meteor to break into fragments.

Dr. Marshall said it may be hours or even days before it can be determined where the meteor ended its course. It may never be traced if it plunged into the ocean.

How to Control Garden Insects

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head, Vegetable Gardening Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School and Director of the Daily Record-American-Sunday Advertiser Garden on the Common.

The problem of insect control becomes more important as good growing weather develops. Success in controlling the pests hinges on two factors: ability to recognize the damage and knowledge of materials.

Cabbage maggot and cutworms are the two insects that are on hand at the present time. I have already given methods of control for these two insects, so refer to my earlier articles. If you are setting cabbage, cauliflower or broccoli now, be sure to put the tar paper discs on as soon as you set the plants. These discs act as a repellant to the maggot fly and will not control this insect if the eggs have been laid.

Bran for cutworm mash can be bought at your local grain dealers or in small packages at your grocers. Ready-made baits are effective if they are from this year's supply.

Tomato seedlings that have been set in the cold frames should be kept as warm as possible or they will not root well. With the recent cool night weather, the glass should be covered to prevent too much heat loss. I have seen a number of cases where these plants are failing to root because the soil temperature is too low. Do not push tomato plants too fast as there is still plenty of time for the plants to [illegible]. Most tomato plants are overgrown before they are set in the garden.

The soil is still too cold for such crops as beans, corn, cucumbers, and squash.

History Courses Start in N. J.

NEW YORK, May 3—New Jersey lost no time today in transforming into action the new law requiring American history to be taught in all high schools throughout the State.

In cities, towns and farming communities, high school principals prepared to revise their curricular plans for the school year 1945-46.

Not only in New Jersey, but throughout the country, educators keenly watched the progress of the new law.

The New Jersey enactment was widely hailed as a consummation of the campaign vigorously conducted by the Hearts newspapers for intensive study of American history that would rear youth in the ideals of the founding fathers.

Gov. Edge, in signing the bill, decreed:

"I have concluded that approval of this bill will be an assurance that the study of United States history will not be neglected, as it undoubtedly has been in the past? in some sections of the State."

T-Bone Suit

SIOUX CITY, Ia., May 4 (AP)—Mrs. Mary Mook, alleging Patrolman Harold Greene had eaten some 75 T-bone steaks, worth about 95 cents each, at her cafe without paying for them, has filed suit against him for $74.25.

Police records show that Greene led a police raid on the Mook establishment last February in which Mrs. Mook was arrested on a charge of illegal possession of lottery tickets.

Following the raid, Greene and another patrolman were suspended for 30 days. Both were returned to duty without loss of pay after appeal to the civil service commission.

Hubby Pulled Gun, Wife Tells Court

LAWRENCE, May 4 — A jammed trigger saved her from being shot in the back by her husband, Mrs. Alvina A. Knowlton of Lawrence testified in Lawrence Probate Court today in seeking an uncontested divorce from Walter S. Knowlton of Beverly, charging cruelty and abuse.

She told Judge John A. Costello he held a pistol at her back and tried to work the trigger. She said he took the weapon apart to fix it butwas "so intoxicated" he was unable to put it together again.

The couple married July 17, 1926. Their five children are under state care because "we were living in a camp at Wenham," Mrs. Knowlton said.

Judge Costello took the case under advisement.

JUSTICE

THE POSTOFFICE COMMITTEE of the House of Representatives in Washington, after many weeks of consideration, has finally given favorable and unanimous action to the long-pending measure designed to give the thousands of postal workers in the United States their first basic pay increase in TWENTY YEARS.

This is an important step in the direction of according justice to the postal workers.

But of course it is ONLY a step.

Many times in recent years the postal workers have seen their petition for adequate pay get this far, and no farther.

Committees have reported favorably on the matter before, without achieving the ends of acknowledged justice.

On several occasions, one house or the other of Congress has actually passed the postal pay increase bill.

But it is no credit to the Congress, and none to the country as a whole, that none of these "steps in the right direction" have ever resulted in upward adjustment of the shamefully low pay of the postal workers.

This time the bill MUST PASS.

It is no longer only a matter of doing simple justice to the postal workers that is involved.

PRESIDENT WILLIAM C. DOHERTY of the National Association of Letter Carriers made this clear in a recent letter to Mr. William Randolph Hearst.

Mr. Doherty wrote to Mr. Hearst because, as he said, "the Hearst newspapers have had a wholesome effect in focusing public attention to the plight of the postal workers."

"The crusade conducted by your newspapers," he continued, "stands out like a beacon light.

"Every citizen should be grateful for the magnificent manner in which you have sounded the warning.

"There still exists a grave danger—the development of an INFERIOR POSTAL SYSTEM."

That is the REAL danger in the present situation.

If continued injustice to the postal workers simply meant that these hundreds of thousands of vital workers would be compelled to exist on the sub-standard living wage they have endured for the last twenty years, it would be bad enough.

Mr. Doherty points out something WORSE.

"Manpower shortages within the postal service are already acute," he warns.

"Management is finding it practically impossible to recruit needed personnel on the present out-moded pay schedules.

"Existing critical conditions are no longer a matter affecting letter carriers and postal workers alone . . .

"Let it be said that the very FUTURE OF THE POSTAL SERVICE and the fate of its personnel now rest with the 79th Congress."

THE FUTURE of the postal service is at stake because the underpaid postal workers are TIRED of sub-standard living, TIRED after twenty years of futile waiting for the performance and fulfillment of broken promises.

Accordingly, thousands of them have already gone into other fields of employment where they can live the AMERICAN way, and other thousands will follow them if the present Congress falls down on its promises and duty, as the previous sessions of Congress have been doing for the past two decades.

If for no other reason than the simple justice of the matter, Congress should approve the postal pay increase bill; but in the vital PUBLIC INTEREST of preserving our essential and efficient postal system it must do so.

MARRIAGES of women in their 30s to men in their 20s continue to increase. Most women marrying younger men are widows. The single girls are much alarmed and a little bitter at the manner in which the young widows are catching all the catches of the season. Some bachelorettes have asked our Mules & Men Department: "What have the widows that we haven't?" Young widows have always been terrific threats as rivals to girls who have yet to experience marriage. The widows try to please the men. Bachelorettes are inclined to demand they be the ones to be pleased. Then, of course, widows know more about men than bachelorettes. They know how to handle a love affair in a more efficient manner. A poet of yesteryear, evidently a close observer of the man-catching technique of the young widow, wrote the following:

She is modest, but not bashful, free and easy, but not bold.
Like an apple, ripe and mellow,
not too young and not too old;
Half inviting, half repulsing;
now inviting, now too shy;
There is mischief in her dimple,
there is danger in her eye!
She can tell the very moment
when to sigh and when to smile;
Oh! a maid is sometimes charming,
but a widow all the while.

PASSING BY: Capt. Dixie Kiefer, Skipper of the aircraft carrier that was the subject of the film "The Fighting Lady." Captain Kiefer is also a veteran of World War I. Has been in the U. S. Navy 27 years. Says most of the crew of "The Fighting Lady" came from around New York City . . . Judy Garland, cinema cutie. Real name is Gumm. Was in vaudeville with her sisters, Dorothy and Sue. They were billed as the Gumm Sisters. If Judy and her sisters had been born boys they might have become lawyers and started the firm of Gumm, Gumm & Gumm.

PLEASE NOTE: A nurse in the Florence Nightingale Hospital in England was recently fined £15 ($50) for kissing a German prisoner of war in the kitchen. Evidently being a prisoner of war in England is even easier to take than being one in the United States. I have heard of German prisoners in this country having ham and eggs for breakfast, steak for dinner and spending their afternoons taking sun baths, but so far have not been informed of any Nazi captive being kissed by a beautiful nurse.

BONELESS SHAD: Note a New York restaurant, established in 1909, claims to have originated the serving of boneless shad. I believe a restaurant in Boston was serving boneless shad before 1909. This eatery also offered a sum of money to any customer who found a bone in the shad served. I cannot win stogies on this as I do not remember the name of the restaurant. Maybe some Bostonian can help me out.

WOMEN, ETC.: Women rarely succeed as radio announcers. Reason is few women talk over the air in a natural and easy manner. Women are very conscious of their attributes. They spend much time studying face and figure in the mirror. They also listen a lot to their own voices. This results in affectation in talking. For radio listeners affectation is dynamite. They hate it. People like to hear women with low, gentle, sincere voices. A woman who can talk that way would be a good radio announcer.

TAXI FARES: The system of payment when passengers share a taxicab differs greatly throughout the country. Is difficult to say which of the many systems is the best. A Californian tells me he got in a cab in Hollywood with another man. Both were going to Beverly Hills. The first man to get out paid what the meter registered, which was $1.60. The taxi skipper switched the meter back to zero. The second man was going two blocks farther. He paid what the meter registered when he got out, which was 20 cents. So one passenger paid $1.60 to get from Hollywood to Beverly Hills and the other paid 20 cents.

SUNSHINE: A Brooklynite wants to bet me a stogie the sun shines as many days in Brooklyn as it does in Miami, Fla. I think there is a catch in this wager. I decline to take it. Of course, the sun shines every day in Miami and also every day in Brooklyn. If it didn't shine there would be no daylight. You have to watch these Brooklynites. They're almost as cagey bettors as the Baltimoreans.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4—This will be a straight, undisguised publicity plug for the Red Cross Blood Donor Service, particularly the San Francisco Center which has suffered a partial eclipse in public attention since the statesmen, journalists and the movie and radio talent descended on the city for those deliberations which we are solemnly conjured not to call a peace conference.

Westbrook Pegler

There is some apprehension that for lack of repetitious mention in print the local collections may decline and, on that theory, another little piece published nationally, might help the cause wherever this work goes on.

In any case, the beneficiaries, if the propaganda does any good, will be wounded Americans overseas as well as those who have been brought home.

One of the volunteer workers at the San Francisco Center is the wife of an officer of the regular Army who was captured with Gen. Wainwright in the Philippines and sent first to Formosa and then to Siberia and the mother of a boy who was killed in Germany only a short time ago.

Another worker, a young woman, is the wife of a bluejacket and the daughter of an American soldier who died of wounds in France in the last war because, as she said, "They didn't have plasma then." There are 900 volunteer women workers serving from one to five days a week in San Francisco, most of whom themselves are donors, and every day two Navy transport planes leave here each carrying 900 to 1200 pints of whole blood, as distinguished from plasma, which is on hand for transfusion into wounded men at hospitals and on hospital ships in the war zone within 60 hours.

PLASMA IS STILL being made because it is the most convenient form for transfusion under emergency conditions in the field and goes ashore with the munitions and food.

At the latest reckoning the American people had given about twelve million pints, most of which was reduced to plasma, but the collection of whole blood, which appears to be more effective when it can be administered, thus far is only about 200,000 pints.

However, these collections began only last November. And while it is true that one pint may save a life momentarily in a crisis, a donor has no right to feel that he has actually given enough to pull a wounded man through even provided all else goes well, until he or she has given at least five pints, the average required by each patient who needs transfusion at all. Some patients have received as much as 20 pints.

A Navy medical officer, who was in the Pacific for 22 months came to the San Francisco Center to inspect the plant and said that the transfusions actually had saved thousands of lives to his certain knowledge.

England, too, has an efficient blood donor service but Col. Charles C. Quigley, a retired officer who is the director of the San Francisco Center, believes that no other nation, not even Germany, with her slaves available by the million for compulsory donations, has had a method and system comparable to ours in abundance, efficiency and promptness.

FIFTY PER CENT of the donors in San Francisco are women, 25 per cent are servicemen, including parties of convalescent wounded, who come in to "pay back," and 25 per cent are civilian men.

Of the women, many are war workers who give up their lunch hours to sit in line awaiting their turns, others are housewives, and most have at least one son or a husband away at the war.

The civilian men of the population may be presumed to have sons and brothers at the front, too, and Col. Quigley's only explanation of their poor showing by comparison with that of the women is that they are afraid of the needle.

However, one crippled veteran of the first war who comes in a car and must be carried into the center, has given 11 pints and there are about ten blind men who are regular contributors, some arriving with their seeing-eye dogs.

Lately a custom of attaching to each pint of whole blood the name and address of the donor has been discontinued for a number of reasons, mainly to relieve the Navy corpsmen and Army medics of the extra work of acknowledging each pint in the name of the patient who can't do it himself.

Col. Quigley believes, however, that this was a mistake because it gave many of the donors great spiritual pleasure to know just who got their contribution and how he got on.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 4—Columbia's glamor girl, Rita Hayworth, will be glamorous all right in "Gilda," her next picture, but she won't be a sweet, pure young thing and she won't sing.

Rita has been dying to go dramatic, and Harry Cohn will be giving her a chance with a vengeance in the story of "Gilda," in which she plays a girl who is a liar, a cheat and a few other things. Whether her fans will be happy at seeing her in this type of character I don't know. At least she'll have a chance to really emote.

Rita Hayworth

Glenn Ford plays opposite her in one of the top male roles. Rita has been sick all week but she has until June 1 to get well when she reports at the studio for fittings. I am rather sorry she won't dance and sing, but these girls always want to do something different and it will be interesting to see her in a dramatic role.

THE EXECUTION of Mussolini creates a lot of speculation as to what happened to Tullio Carminati, who was a fanatical Fascist. Carminati, who was both on the stage and in motion pictures, was sent back to Italy after he expressed himself as being in favor of Mussolini and Hitler. That was before we were in the war. It is possible the patriots may have put Carminati to death, or he may have seen the error of his ways and joined them. No one seems to have heard anything about him since he left this country. He was, at one time, Eleanora Duse's leading man, and he was starred on the New York stage in "Strictly Dishonorable." He came from Italian nobility.

YOU WOULD BE surprised if you knew what producer-director is planning to merge with William Le Baron when Bill forms his own company. I held up my right hand and promised not to reveal the name of Bill's new partner since he is still under contract to a big studio. But Le Baron, who has left 20th, is headed for New York today to buy some story material and that, as well as his partner, will be a future announcement.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Alfred Wright, son of the Los Angeles attorney, is marrying Nancy Cochran, sister of Lucy Cochran, Boston socialite. Lt. Wright has won the Distinguished Flying Cross and has covered himself with glory in the war. I was talking to Lucy, who is in Hollywood for a movie career, and she's very excited over the wedding, which is set for May 12. She's to be maid of honor and is preparing to leave for Boston, but, she says, to stay only for the wedding.

THIS IS HARD to believe but so many strange things happen these days, not only in world events, but in the theater, that I am printing the story as I heard it. According to a friend of Ethel Barrymore, she is planning to direct Mary Martin in her next Broadway musical, "The Lute Song." When Ethel would have the time to do such a chore is difficult to say. She has a radio deal, she has a play she wants to do herself on the Broadway stage and she is expected to star in "Miss Hargreaves" for RKO. Mary Martin gets here any day now to star in "One Touch of Venus" for Mary Pickford. It is possible Ethel may make some suggestions for "The Lute Song" but why should the first lady of the theater direct any actress but herself?

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Nancy Gates, RKO actress, will soon have Maureen O'Hara for a sister-in-law. She's marrying Lt. Kenneth Price, Will Price's brother; Norma Talmadge celebrated her birthday at Romanoff's with Constance Collier, Judith Anderson, Dr. Carleton James and Orry-Kelly. Norma looks so well and says she has put on 10 pounds, which is very becoming; Robert Taplinger came into Romanoff's with Jennifer Jones, and they sat down at our table to chat with Capt. Gene Markey, who was given a royal reception by all the Hollywood folk with whom he is very popular; William Dozier is on his way east on RKO business. He told me just before he left that "Enchanted Cottage" is breaking all records for RKO at the box office.

DOROTHY LAMOUR has gone to San Francisco and Sacramento on a hospital tour. She will only be in S. F. a day and doesn't expect to get a chance to attend the conference; Jack Goldstein, head of the David Selznick New York publicity department, is in town on business; Atty. Julian T. Abeles is here at the Ambassador on special Universal business; Loretta Young chose a very bad time to get so sick with the flu. She's moving into her new home and everything has been taken out of the house except Loretta and her bed; Ann Sothern has been teaching Veronica Lake and Leslie Brooks, expectant mothers, how to make baby shoes out of suede gloves. Mighty cute too. Cole Porter has arrived in town. He's to be the guest of honor at a party at the Charles Feldmans Friday night, and Lady Mendl is entertaining for him a week from Saturday; Tallulah Bankhead gave a cocktail party in New York for Bill Eythe, to introduce him to her New York friends.

NEW YORK, May 4—One of these spring afternoons, walk up Fifth ave. between 50th and 58th on the west side of the street. You'll probably meet Bert Lahr strolling in a snappy suit and well-polished brogans, with a loud cravat spilling color all over his shirt front and the graceful ears of a folded handkerchief protruding at just the fashionable angle from his breast pocket. You'll run into Sherman Billingsley walking to work in the pleasant sunlight, and Monte Prosser bound for the Metropolitan Museum of Art to kill an afternoon. (The curfew, you see; lads who formerly slept until dusk are now prowling blinkingly through the bright rays of the city at lunch time.) You may even encounter Beatrice Lillie—slim, trim, neat-looking in a pencil-narrow black dress and a little red leather fez perched on the back of her slick head, jaunting along the sparkling pavement. These are daytime sights peculiar to New York and not to be missed.

DEAR MISS KILGALLEN:

Recently Frank Sinatra was scheduled to appear in Boston at Symphony Hall. My friend, Ruth Lerner, and I had seats together for $4.80. As you know, he did not appear! My friend's money and mine was refunded, but that did not satisfy us. Once again Boston Sinatra fans were told that Frank would appear here at the World Youth Festival.

I don't know if you read any of Boston's papers, but if you do you saw Ruth's and my pictures. You see, that Friday night my friend and I were introduced to George Evans and Al Levy. He (George Evans) told us how terribly "sick" Frankie was. He also asked me to explain to the 250) "bobby sockers" how horribly "sick" Frankie was. I got up on the stage and told the other girls and boys the whole story.

Well, a big fuss was made over me. I was interviewed by at least seven reporters, had pictures taken and was pampered like a 3-year-old, as was my friend Ruthie. In fact a week later Ruth and I received personally autographed pictures from Frank. The day after the second "brushoff" I found out that Frank spent Friday night happily rooting for Tami Mauriello, instead of quietly reposing in his "sick bed" at his New York hotel.

Now I want you to know that my friend and I are still faithful to Frank although a number of Bostonians who were once his fans have decided to brush him off for a change. I can't understand what's wrong with Boston that makes him drop us like hot potatoes each time he says he's coming.

Sincerely and Smatrally yours,
(Miss) THELMA STEIR.

WASHINGTON, May 4—Being an old hands-across-the-sea-fancier from away back, I am printing the following from Mrs. Vera House, of Laurel st., Fort Bragg, Cal., who also signs herself, "An Indignant War Bride:"

"I wish to answer your recent column about the English war bride of Lt. Ralph Davidson who took it upon herself to explain why English girls marry American service men. She said that we marry them because they are gayer and more carefree than 'serious and steady' Britons; they wear snappier uniforms and have more money.

"As I am the English bride of Pvt. Harry House, I am forced to contradict this bold statement of Mrs. Davidson.

"I venture to say my husband is proud of me, but not for the reasons put forward by the new arrival. If he thought this were true he would have me shipped back to England faster than I was shipped over.

"During his two years in England he had opportunities to meet with golddiggers and other types. Such confessions of golddigging undoubtedly have caused much ill feeling.

"I suggest that Mrs. Davidson is trying to be clever—but does not know how to go about it. Her ill-chosen words have given me quite a headache.

"I am happy to be in America, but want to stretch my arms across the ocean to shake the hands of our underpaid service men who have at some time or other during the war helped the ungrateful lady.

"Perhaps in time she will realize the British and Americans, despite the difference between their uniforms and pay, are fighting for the same cause.

"May I, through the medium of your column, ask your readers not to think seriously of this bold statement and to rest assured I for one did not marry an American for any one of these reasons.

"I sincerely hope the little lady will not be disillusioned and want to run home to find consolation in the arms of a 'serious and steady' Briton."

INASMUCH AS this seems to be my day for recognizing the customers I would like to go to the other extreme and publish a letter from that gallant warrior and pillar of society, Sgt. Jerry D. Lewis.

I had occasion to mention Sgt. Lewis in the course of an interview recently with Mr. Toots Shor, the Manhattan Man Mountain. I quoted Mr. Shor as asking Sgt. Lewis how a man so dumb got to be sergeant, together with Sgt. Lewis' retort:

"That's what Stimson keeps asking."

I intended to be only flattering, but Sgt. Lewis apparently has elected to take umbrage. Anyway, he writes:

"Dear George: Why I am sucker enough to sit down and do a column for you I will never know, since it is obvious from your daily sudsy prose that you wouldn't recognize a split infinitive if it bit you.

"However, I must make some reply to your slanderous and wholly unwarranted remarks in 'Washington Scene' today. Let us take first things first, old man.

"'That's what Stimson keeps asking,' you quote me as saying. I am a staff sergeant, and I would beg to impress upon that ersatz brain of yours that there are quite a few ranks between Mr. Stimson and myself.

"And if you insist on quoting me that way at any time in the future I have a feeling that there are likely to be even more ranks between us than at present.

"If I get kicked out of the Army for this and made into a civilian, I'll have no one but you to thank (and I want you to know that I will thank you).

"More people than I suspect must read that patented shelf-lining you produce, because from the phone calls I got last night and this morning, you'd have thought I had been elected mayor of at least 12 cities."

Boston After Dark

NOW THAT THE STORY of Boston's huge surplus of butter is hitting Page 1, housewives should feel less conscience-stricken about the pounds and pounds of the precious commodity they have been smuggling (they assumed) out of their favorite grocery stores . . . The fact is that butter has been sold without points for months in Greater Boston . . . But the gals who do the shopping weren't being favored, particularly.

THERE WAS so much of the commodity on hand that the alternative of its going rancid on the store shelves was the one generally adopted—selling it, namely, without the precious points . . . Incidentally, the show-up of the butter situation means that red meat will be less plentiful in your favorite restaurant . . . The restaurants have been withholding butter from their setups because their customers had been weaned away from demanding it . . . The points saved by the canny restaurateurs in taking advantage of a made-to-order situation have been diverted to the purchase of steaks and chops.

RALPH SNIDER, THE BOSTON man who has pyramided an original small holding in one motion picture theater into a small empire of amusement ventures in New England, has bought the Oceanside Hotel in Magnolia, we hear . . . The Snider debut in the hotel business came about when he acquired the Hotel Bradford two years ago . . . That enterprise has been successful in the extreme . . . Meantime, Mr. Snider's Rhode Island holdings (in association with Judge Dooley, president of Narragansett Park) have become the most important motion picture chain in Little Rhody.

ABOUT THE BRADFORD—its Roof was re-opened two weeks ago last night . . . Under the management of Harry Drake, the former actors' agent, the Roof is bubbling with prosperity . . . Alan Gale, the emcee, is proving to be inoffensively popular, and when an emcee is inoffensive that is something . . . Rose Marie, the erstwhile "baby star" of the movies, looms as a probable late May headliner at the Bradford Roof . . . If Rose Marie returns to Boston when the scintillating young singer is being importuned to sign contracts in Hollywood, Buenos Aires, Paris and New York, credit will go to Ruthie Snider Shapiro, Ralph's smart young daughter . . . Rose Marie's new radio show (for Chesterfield) has clicked on 9 o'clock quarter-hour Tuesdays.

SPEAKING OF former baby stars, Mitzi Green, the great young mime who derived from the onetime headlining act formed by her parents under the name of Keno (Joe) and Green (Rosie), is booked into The Mayfair as of May 16 . . . Artie Dann is the featured performer currently at The Mayfair . . . At the uptown Fensgate's Satire Room, a girl named Elisse Cooper has found a Boston following which should prove devoted . . . The youngster is an attractive blonde with a "hep" style of singing . . . She does a superb job with "St. Louis Blues" and "All of a Sudden (My Heart Sings)" . . . Elisse's husband is Cpl. Gabriel Gelinas . . . They have not been married very long, but when Elisse was singing with the late Ben Bernie's band, her husband was the trumpet player with Will Bradley, and one of the best in the business.

Mother Gifts—She Deserves the Best

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

MOTHERS are fantastically wonderful . . . always were, always will be. One minute a divine influence, the next minute . . . a friend, a pal, an inspiration that carries us through all the days of our life.

But today mothers are truly fabulous. Their new-found energy and eternal spirit has taken them into Red Cross work, War Bond drives and even into the war plants.

Mother's Day should be something super special this year . . . the day for expression of the accumulated love and devotion and reverence we have for her throughout eternity. She hasn't much time to think of herself. In these trying times . . . her days are unglamorous and much of the time has been filled with worry. Let's gift her on May 13 with spoiled-feeling items . . . to rekindle the spark of feminine joy and pampered extravagance.

Here are a few suggestions to help you in honoring Mother . . . for all her loving kindnesses through every day of every year . . . gifts that speak for themselves since they bespeak sweetness and loveliness.

Powder sachet . . . rubbed into the skin . . . surrounds a woman with an aura of loveliness. Or it may be sprinkled on the bedclothes to help defeat insomnia . . . a common maternal complaint and no wonder. This garden fragrant I suggest brings to mind the language of flowers . . . it's delightful.

CARNATION PERFUME GRAND GIFT

What more could be appropriate, more traditional as a lovely tribute than a heavenly carnation perfume . . . and the one we have in mind is tops in its field. The creator has caught the exact, matchless scent of the clove flower and every mother . . . young or not-so-young, will enjoy its subtle spiciness . . . its elusive charm. It is just like a fresh bouquet of carnations still damp with dew.

Or a boxed dozen roses . . . little cakes of soap with the impress of the spirited flower pressed on its face . . . which exudes the same uplifting odor in its melted goodness. Its pink petals of soap will come to life when they are used . . . and mother will renew the joy of something extra special . . . for her bath and daily ablutions . . . for into each little rose-cake has gone the fragrance of hundreds of flowers making it a delight and luxury to use.

For the names of any or all of these Mother's Day suggestions, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

MOTHER will appreciate a gift suggestive of her charm this year more than ever . . . with her son or daughter away. Tribute her with the fabulous homage and honor she deserves . . . today more than yesterday . . . because her indomitable spirit and courage carries us through all the days of our life. May 13 is Mother's Day.

My Day . . . . By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Thursday . . . Until I actually see a photograph of Hitler dead, I shall feel rather skeptical. The horror of Mussolini's death would, I think, make any of the German officials do everything possible to escape a like fate.

It has often been said that Hitler had a double. Unless one really saw his body, and it was identified by people who knew him but who were not his close associates, I think one would be justified in wondering if he had not killed his substitute and tried, himself, to escape.

It may be that escape is impossible, but one cannot help feeling that these men made their plans long in advance. That they will make every effort to escape seems a foregone conclusion.

I WANT TO ADD a little to what I said yesterday about implementing legislation passed for the benefit of our servicemen.

I believe that every community should have a committee made up of its leaders in education, agriculture, business and the professions; that these men and women should be ready to give counsel to returning servicemen, and to continue doing it as long as it is needed.

Take education as an example. I am already getting letters from boys who were drafted before they completed high school. If they are fortunate enough to come home, they will undoubtedly need not only to complete their high school course, but possibly to go on to further training and education.

It is obvious, however, that after service in the armed forces it will be quite impossible for them to return to the regular classes. They will have matured; the work they have done in service will have given them certain things they did not have when they went away.

Special courses should be available to meet their needs, and they should be allowed to move forward faster than the youngsters whose schooling has been uninterrupted.

IN NUMEROUS communities throughout our nation, training for many occupations is not available. Yet no community should be without the information as to how that training may be obtained for any of their boys who need it.

There may not be many boys returning to your community at the present moment. But the preparation for their return should be going on daily, because you will find there is much you have to learn before you are prepared to meet the needs of the men who have fought the war for you.

The Correct Thing

By ELINOR AMES

"WHAT'S WRONG HERE?" If a gentleman who is seated in a car sees a lady of his acquaintance passing on foot they may exchange greetings. If she stops to talk, however, he should get out of the car. It is not good form for him to remain seated while she is standing.

Evening Dresses of Cotton

By BETTINA BEDWELL

COLORFUL cotton evening dresses have been a great American contribution to warm weather fashions for a good many years, and there is nothing in the world more beautiful or more practical. Lately, however, the cotton dress has been hard to find, and I'm glad to say that this spring there are some beauties around, designed by our best talents.

One such is sketched. This is a model from Emmet Joyce, designed for Samuel Kass, and it's made of cotton eyelet embroidery in a lush and vivid pink shade. It has a full skirt and wide sleeves, and a slim midriff bodice with a deep V-shaped neckline having a small collar around the neck. Jeweled buttons fasten the dress down the front.

Fillet-Bread Dressing Dish Grand Spring Item

By MARTHA LEE

SERVING FISH in the absence of meat will not only save red points but will supply a nutritious and economical food. There is a large variety of fish from which to draw for menu inspiration and it can be served in numerous appetizing ways.

This fillet and bread dressing dish, for instance, will be a favored one on any table. The contrast in texture between the bread and fish adds to its appetite appeal, and the cucumber sauce makes it increasingly tempting. Served with new asparagus and new green beans and a light dessert, it makes a completely satisfying spring meal.

ROLLED STUFFED FISH FILLETS

1 cups cubed enriched bread
½ tsp. salt
½ cup diced celery
½ cup minced onion
⅛ tsp. pepper
¼ tsp. marjoram or sage
1 tbsp. melted shortening
1-3 cup milk
1 tsp. lemon juice

To bread cubes add salt, celery, onion, pepper, marjoram, shortening, milk and lemon juice. Blend these ingredients together. Spread dressing on 6 fillets and roll fillet up crosswise. Tie securely. Bake in a shallow pan in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) for 30 minutes. Small herring, flounder, or whitefish fillets may be used. Makes 6 servings.

CUCUMBER SAUCE

1 cup diced cucumber
½ cup sour cream (thick)
½ tsp. salt
½ drops onion juice

Wash cucumber and leave rind on; dice and drain. Whip sour cream until smooth; add diced cucumber, salt and onion juice. Serve with fried fish fillets. Makes 1¼ cups sauce.

Here is a nutritious and delicious combination of cereal and fish, two unrationed foods available to the wartime homemaker, that will solve many a meatless meal problem. Fish fillets may be stuffed with whole bran, an excellent source of protein, B vitamins, calcium, iron and energy this easy way:

BRAN-STUFFED FISH FILLETS

3 cups fine enriched bread crumbs
½ cup whole bran
2 tbsp. minced onion
3 tbsp. melted butter or margarine
1 tsp. salt
Few grains poultry seasoning
Few grains pepper
⅔ cup water
6 fish fillets

Combine bread crumbs with bran. Saute onion in butter or margarine; add to bran mixture with salt, poultry seasoning and pepper. Add water; mix well. Spread each fillet with firmly packed layer of stuffing. Roll up each fillet; tie securely with string to hold in place during baking. Place fillets, end side up, in baking dish or pan. Cover with piece of oiled brown paper. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) ½ hour, removing paper during last 10 minutes. Serve with lemon wedges. Remove string before serving. Makes 6 servings.

SCANDINAVIAN FISH PUDDING

1 lb. fillets of haddock
1½ tsp. salt
1⅓ tsp. flour
¼ tsp. nutmeg
¼ tsp. pepper
3 tbsp. melted butter or margarine
1¾ cups milk

Wash fillets and dry thoroughly with cloth. Cut in small pieces and put through meat grinder, using the finest knife. Add salt, flour, nutmeg, and pepper to fish and put through grinder 6 times. Add milk carefully, stirring until well blended. Stir in melted butter. Pour in greased 1½-quart baking dish and bake in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) 30 to 35 minutes, until firm. Serve with lemon butter. Makes 6 servings. Buttered fine, dry crumbs may be sprinkled over top before baking.

Fashion

NOTHING is so flattering to a basic dark dress as a crisp, white lingerie accent . . . and the cascade of lace-edged organdy from the throat down is an ingenious treatment of a feminine accessory for a slim-lined dress of soft black crepe. This is from the personal wardrobe of Warner actress Faye Emerson . . . and one of which she is extremely fond.—R. M.

$735,000 Will Benefits Kin

A $250,000 trust fund, from which his widow will be paid an annual income of $10,000, was set up under the $735,000 will of Samuel L. Agoos, wealthy Boston leather merchant, who died March 17 at the Copley Plaza Hotel. The will has been admitted in Suffolk Probate Court.

On the death of the widow, Mrs. Anne Freshman Agoos, the trust fund reverts to the estate

The will provides that 75 per cent of the residue is to be divided among his three daughters, Mrs. Blanche A. Rosenthal and Mrs Marcia A. Starensier of Brookline and Mrs. Harriet A. Goldfine of Harvard, and the remainder equally among his grandchildren.

The will also makes an outright bequest of $100,000 to Mrs. Rosenthal.

The will directs public bequests of $1000 each to Temple Adath Israel and Temple Adath Jeshurun; the Hebrew Union College of Cincinnati; the Jewish Theological Seminary of America of New York city, and the Urban League of Greater Boston and $500 to the Deaconess Hospital.

Jewish War Vets Convene

National Com. Archie Greenberg of the Jewish War Veterans arrived in Boston today to be guest speaker at tomorrow's opening of the 14th annual encampment of the Massachusetts Dept. at the Parker House, where sessions will continue through Sunday.

Com. Greenberg was to call on Gov. Tobin and Mayor Kerrigan during the forenoon and this afternoon visit Cushing General Hospital, where Auxiliary officers were to present gifts to wounded veterans.

Tonight the delegates will attend a memorial service for President Roosevelt at Temple Sinai in Brookline, as guests of Brookline Post.

Highlighting tomorrow's activities will be the civic luncheon tendered by Mayor Kerrigan to Com. Greenberg, at which Gov. Tobin will also be a guest, and the annual military ball at night.

Sunday is convention day, with business sessions scheduled for morning and afternoon. Between the sessions, the first officers of the newly-formed all-girl post the Lt. Frances Y. Slanger Post, named after the first Army nurse killed in the European theater—will be installed before the full convention.

Seaman Kills Wife, Himself

KENSINGTON, N. H., May 4 —Frank Beckman, 28, a merchant seaman, home on furlough, and his wife, Madeleine, 27, were found dead today of bullet wounds on the kitchen floor of their home.

Dr. Edwin D. Lee, of Exeter, called by Beckman's sister, Helen, after she discovered the bodies, said the merchant seaman had shot his wife with a service pistol and then turned the gun on himself..

Sheriff Charles Osgood and Dr. Weldell P. Clair, of Portsmouth, medical referee, were unable to give any immediate explanation of the shooting.

'Memphis Bound' Joyful; Wonderful Time for All

By PEGGY DOYLE

Gilbert and Sullivan gaudily laced with boogie-woogie and retyped with blithe irreverence is the best part of John Wildberg's Vinton Freedley production of "Memphis Bound."

The Bill Robinson-starring all-Negro musical comedy opened last night at the Colonial in a blaze of fantastically bedizened costumes and a burst of frenetic zeal that completely captivated the capacity audience.

The first act, when it gets into its production-within-a-production of "H. M. S. Pinafore," has zing. It also has the audience in the palm of the hand, that is, after it gets away from the noisome and poorly developed introduction. That first scene needs clarification and drastic blue-pencilling. The second act, on the other fist, needs a lot more than that. It is a distinct let-down and requires a complete overhauling and a shot in the arm. The return to the showboat theme—the plot is concerned with a showboat, stymied at Callibogа on the Mississippi for lack of funds—slows the story which is at its best on the Pinafore's quarterdeck.

The rise of the first-act curtain revealed a generous collection of permanently sun-tanned lovelies that for neatly arranged silhouettes take the cake in a walk. Most striking of these are Sheila Guys, Ida James and Thelma Carpenter.

They and the rest of the company, notably "Bojangles" Robinson, whose Admiral's "scrambled eggs" shone no brighter than his dazzling smile, and Avon Long, that irresistibly impudent rascal of "Porgy and Bess" who is up to his old and wonderful tricks again, have that racial having-a-wonderful-time exuberance in their performance to an astronomical degree.

It is so contagious that even us low-pressure cases were caught up in it. There were even some sillies who, like Ada Brown's Little Buttercup, thought they might step as lively as "Bojangles," who will be 67 years young the 25th of this month.

"Bojangles" Robinson's celebrated stair-dance stopped the show, and so did his slow and easy singing of "Growing Pains" to tiny Timmie, otherwise Georgia Ann Timmons, the company's baby and the audience's pet on sight.

Lucinda Ballard's imaginative costuming is a most important contribution to the production's flavor and authoritative quality. A bow apiece goes to Don Walker and Clay Warnick for the lyrics and music, and another to Charles Sanford, who conducted. The book by Albert Barker and Sally Benson, as indicated, shorts the production in the last half. And we almost forgot to give a great, big hand to the Delta Rhythm Boys, whose harmonies are the sweetest music to your ears.

Sterling Acting In Met's Film

As a dramatization of the exploits of Gen. Chennault's intrepid Flying Tigers, "God Is My Co-Pilot," which opened yesterday at the Met, is excellent; as a chronicle of the career of an individual fighter pilot, it chalks up with the best; but as the story of a religious experience it somehow misses.

Perhaps the fault lies in trying to get too much into one script. Although Col. Scott's autobiographical book undoubtedly presented all three elements, they have not in the screen version been fused successfully into a dramatic whole.

Certainly there can be no quarrel with the casting or the direction. Dennis Morgan is likable and convincing as Col. Robert L. Scott. Raymond Massey makes a fine Chennault. Alan Hale strikes the right note as a missionary priest and the fliers and crews seem genuine.

The story is that of a boy who dreamed of flying in his childhood, went to West Point with the same dream, and was a nappily married Army Air Force officer long before the war.

When it came, he was considered too old for combat flying, but he eventually wore down his superiors and found himself in the China-Burma-India theater with the Tigers, though not of them.

Chennault, desperately short of pilots, cut red tape and told him to go ahead and shoot down Zeros, which he did most successfully.

'Music for Millions' Feast For All on Loew's Screens

By PEGGY DOYLE

Metro's "Music for Millions," a sure-fire blend of gorgeous music, standout individual performances and tender sentiment, is luring people in droves out of the evasive sunshine . . . or is it raining again? . . . into Loew's twin theaters.

Producer Joe Pasternak and Director Henry Koster, those old masters responsible for the early Deanna Durbin film honeys now reunited at the Leo the Lion address, have earmarked this box office bonanza with the same melodic distinction that blessed their D. D. classics.

Jose Iturbi . . . and he's the artist who can do it . . . conducts a symphonic group in the playing of Grieg, Tchaikovsky, Dvorak, Chopin, Liszt, Handel and Herbert and plays one lovely piano solo of Debussy's "Claire de Lune."

The gentle, sometimes tearful and always appealing story revolves around June Allyson, who plays the 'cello in the symphony orchestra, and wistful, little Margaret O'Brien, and small Maggie's stalwart efforts to comfort big sister June who is going to have a baby and is deeply troubled because she does not hear from her soldier-husband.

Jimmy Durante introduces a staccato note in this persuasive melange of music and sentiment as Iturbi's manager, bouncer and all-around handyman. He reverses his own trademark "they all want to get into the act" routine by crashing Conductor Iturbi's cultural feast for musical gourmets with a wonderful number, "Toscanini, Iturbi and Me." And just as good as new is his durable, devastating "Umbriago."

Of course, our boy Jimmy stops the show with both contributions. He and the little O'Brien split it between them in a waiting-outside-the-maternity-ward sequence.

Characters are not too solidly developed in "Music for Millions," and in the instances of Durante and Margaret O'Brien personality and acting skill have generously padded out the script's defections.

But, shortcomings or no, the overall charm of the picture and rare talent of the starring performers make "Music for Millions" a lulu and entice you and you and you to come out wherever you are and catch it at the State or Orpheum.

Cigs to Hero

EDINBURGH, May 4 (AP)—Cairo newspapers recently carried an item about David Bell, British veteran who lost his sight and both hands in the El Alamein fighting, and who now planned to open a small tobacco store here.

King Farouk read the account, and sent Bell 25,000 of his best Egyptian cigarets.

Sal Bartolo 10-8 Choice Over Gus Mell Tonight

By JACK CONWAY

THE PUBLIC likes a champion. That is why Sal Bartolo of East Boston, NBA world's featherweight champion, will enter the ring 10-to-8 favorite over Gus Mell of Montreal at a Goodwin A. C. show at the Garden tonight.

SAL BARTOLO
NBA Champ Arrives for Mell Test

Bartolo is the betting choice despite the fact the heavy thumping Mell won a decision over him in a stirring battle recently.

Bartolo's title will not be at stake. This gives Mell a better chance of winning. If Gus were to reduce to 126 pounds, Bartolo would toy with him. The Canadian would lack the necessary strength to force the issue. Entering the ring with his full strength, Mell will have all of his vitality and he will be a difficult opponent for Bartolo to defeat.

Mell is the darling of the fans. This 19-year-old Canadian lightweight has skyrocketed from a spot as a $150 preliminary boxer to that of a $6000 attraction inside of six months. It is only in the boxing game that it is possible for an athlete to move to the front so rapidly. It is easy to see where Mell can earn more than $100,000 this year if he wins from Bartolo tonight.

Gus has color and a punch. His baby face causes almost every fan who sees him tossing punches to root for him to win.

Mell also came along at a time when there was a scarcity of boxers. His brilliance as a boxer and puncher soon won the admiration of the fans.

Gus is far from being a perfect boxer. This would be too much to expect in view of his limited experience, but he is improving with each bout. Infighting is still Mell's chief weakness. He prefers standing at long range when he has a better chance to score with one of his dynamic punches.

Bartolo Has Class

BARTOLO HAS an abundance of ring class. He does everything right when under the blistering fire of ring competition. He is a good boxer, fast on his feet, a top ring general, and he hits hard with either hand. I have always felt Sal punched fastest and hardest when he was hurt. He responds to the challenge of an opponent who is striving for a kayo.

It is Bartolo's ring finish that will send him into battle a favorite tonight. He will not be handicapped by a wound over his right eye as was the case when he last fought Mell. In that bout, Bartolo changed his ring stance to avoid Mell's left. He didn't want to risk having the wound over his left eye opened.

It will be the old story of a boxer against a puncher, and under such conditions almost anything can happen. It is seldom that two boxers have been as well matched for an important ring test. There should be stirring action from the opening gong until the tussle is decided.

The Disabled Veterans Fund of the American-Record-Sunday-Advertiser will receive 10 per cent of the gross receipts of the show after taxes are deducted.

Random Shots at Target

DAN CARROLL, who recently returned to Boston from a vacation in Florida, will be at the ringside trying to pick a winner . . . Dan is anxious to get a peek at Mell.

Andy Martin of the South End, former featherweight star, has been one of the original Mell rooters . . . Martin picked Gus to win from Bartolo in their last bout, and he believes the hard-hitting Canadian will repeat his triumph tonight.

Derry New Yank Slugger

By HUCK FINNEGAN

The whole town's talking about Boo Ferriss and Jim Wilson, Red Sox rookie shutout sensations. The Sox, however, haven't any monopoly on the rookie market. Watch this Russ Derry, who will be patrolling right field for the Yanks in the three-day, four-game series that started at Fenway Park today.

Derry is starting his first full season with the Yanks. He has played only 12 games this season. But already he has hit four home runs, two of them "grand slam" masterpieces.

Russ Derry

Realize now the record for "grand slam" homers is four for a season, and realize the select company that shares that record:

Frank Schulte, June 3, July 4, July 18, Aug. 16, 1911—Cubs. George H. Ruth, May 20, June 30, July 18, Aug. 23, 1919—Red Sox. Henry L. Gehrig—"Larrupin' Lou"—May 10, May 13, June 10, July 5, 1934—Yankees. Rudy York, May 16, May 22, May 30, Sept. 3, 1938—Detroit.

Great hitters all, and here rookie Derry is ahead of their record.

Who is Derry, and what is his background?

He's a farmer boy from Princeton, Mo., and he's been in the Yankees' chain since '38.

"I was with him at Joplin that year," said Sox rookie Lloyd Christopher. "He was the best hitter on the club, I recall, and he could always hit that long ball the Yanks like so much. He went to Norfolk in '39 and hit a flock of homers. I was with him in Newark for a time in '41 and with him at Kansas City all of '42, and I can say he always could hit."

Derry might have been famous sooner had not war intervened. Last year, for example, he was kept down on the farm until late season. This season, he had full benefit of the Yanks training at Atlantic City, and he impressed from the start. Herschel Martin had the left field spot fastened down after his 1944 work. Lindell, of course, was a fixture in center. So Derry grabbed the right field job from Bud Metheny, a pretty good hitter himself. Derry's fielding and throwing, in addition to his long hitting, won the job.

Take a peek at him. He's slim for a slugger, not tall like Williams, not herculean like Gehrig, Ruth or York. Rhythm and perfect timing bring him those long hits. It'll be fun watching him matching wits with Ferriss, Wilson et al.

Christopher, for the first time this season, let loose with his throwing arm in the Thursday practice. He had plenty on the ball, too. He may be seen in center field over the week-end. He's a beautiful fielder. "I saw him in the A.A. in '42," said the Sox Jim Bucher, "and he was the finest young outfield prospect in the league." A series of leg and shoulder injuries kept him from big league stardom. Christopher became the father of a baby boy two days ago . . . Bucher, incidentally, had a long individual batting session after the Sox off-day practice. He may break into the infield soon . . . Tobin's swollen right thumb doesn't reduce. It won't, he's been told, while he plays every day . . . Clem Dreisewerd was notified that his brother Albert, 24, was killed in action on Okinawa. He was a Marine . . . The Yanks, for all their lack of Di Maggios, Ruffings, Rizzutos, Gordons, etc., are the team to beat for the American League pennant . . . Girl Player Star at Ayer

AYER, May 4 (AP)—When the Ayer High School baseball team trots out on the field, opponents rub their eyes and look again.

For the catcher is a girl.

She's Miss Rita Briggs, 16, and "one of the best ball players on the team," according to Coach Donald Wood.

Rita's teammates, all boys, agree that she's a "regular feller" and a "good ball player."

The young lady herself says she's "always liked baseball."

Rain Upsets Braves Drive on Giants

By BILL GRIMES

NEW YORK, May 4—"Just as soon as I saw what I was going to have in the way of players this spring," declared Bob Coleman, yesterday, while he was sitting out another rainy afternoon, his sixth since the opening of the National League season, "I began to dope out what I would expect the Braves to do before they began their first swing around the western circuit.

"I realized that Mel Ott had some good power hitters, and that they'd probably be ahead of my pitchers. With the possible exception of Bill Voiselle, I didn't figure the Giant pitchers would be too rough on my boys. But, to be on the safe side, I predicted, to myself, of course, that the Braves would break even with New York in the opening series.

"Well, as you and the New England fans now know, I missed that boat. We were three games down to the Giants before we chalked up a win. And, brother, believe me, when I tell you that it wasn't any satisfaction to me that Mel Ott was obliged to send in relief pitchers in every game.

"He used 10 pitchers in that series against my nine. But he won three games. I'd have been willing to toss them all in there to get off to that start.

"Of course, at the time I was making all of these mental ratings, I didn't allow for injuries such as befell Tom Nelson, Frankie Drews, Eddie Joost, Whitey and finally, I hope, Norm Wallen. Nor did I figure on all these rainy days, which can easily ruin any ball club at this season of the year.

"I figured the Braves to take six out of eight from the Phillies during the first home and home series. And I didn't give the Dodgers more than two games out of the six.

"Well, look what happened. We won the first game in Philadelphia.

"We were rained out the next day but Andrews and Barrett, between them, won the first game of Sunday's doubleheader. Then, we blew a two run lead in the ninth to lose the nightcap.

"And now against the softest touch in the league, the Dodgers, we are rained out twice.

The Braves opened a four-game three-day series against the Giants this afternoon at the Polo Grounds. They are in third place, trailing the pace-making Ottmen by a game and a half. They could return home in first place.

Red Barrett will be on the hilltop today. He was to have done the pitching yesterday at Ebbetts Field. Barrett hasn't returned a winner in either of his starts this spring. On his first time out, he hurled a fine game, holding the Giants to one hit in seven rounds. But, when Johnny Rucker slapped a home run into the bleachers in the eighth he developed a "peeve" and was trailing by three runs before the third Giant had been retired.

Bulletin

NEW YORK, May 4—The opener of the Braves-Giants series, scheduled for this afternoon at the Polo Grounds here, has been postponed because of rain.

Accuse Brown Of Proselyting

COLUMBUS, O., May 4 (AP)—Carroll Widdoes, head football coach at Ohio State University, said today that Lt. Paul E. Brown, who has a contract to coach Cleveland's team in the proposed postwar All-American Football League, "is signing or trying to sign players from our 1942 freshman team who now are in service and has approached some of the varsity players."

Brown was Widdoes' predecessor at Ohio State and was on leave of absence from the university until he resigned to accept the Cleveland job.

"When he (Brown) was here I heard him in all of his speeches advise boys to get their college education first and then sign professional contracts," Widdoes said. "Now that he is in the pro game he is doing an about face."

At the U. S. Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill., Brown declared:

"My attitude toward boys getting their education first hasn't changed one bit. Furthermore, I am in the Naval service and anything to do with contracts is being handled by John Brickles, acting manager of the Cleveland team, in my presence.

"I don't know anything about men being approached with contracts. I haven't talked to any of them. Our league cannot hope to operate until the 1946 season and the availability of those 1942 freshmen now in service is contingent upon how long it takes to whip the Japanese."

Brown said that is the men became available by the 1946 season they would be "entirely free" to enter pro ball under the practice followed by the National League of signing college players only after their class has been graduated.

Yankees Release Paul Waner

NEW YORK, May 4 (AP)—Paul Waner, for 20 years a major league outfielder, was unconditionally released yesterday by the New York Yankees, with whom he joined up last fall.

Waner and his younger brother, Lloyd, starred for many years with the Pittsburgh Pirates. Paul led the National League in batting in 1927, 1934 and 1936 and set a modern record by getting 200 or more hits in a season for the eighth time in 1937.

Race Horses Bring Highest of Prices

By DAVE WILSON

Despite the current ban on racing, thoroughbred race horses are bringing the highest prices in history.

A local horseman was recently commissioned to purchase several thoroughbreds for a New York patron. He was obliged to give up the mission because of exorbitant prices owners are demanding for thoroughbreds.

One of the horses offered for sale was a plater that ran under a $3500 claiming tag at Tropical Park's abbreviated meeting. The owner wanted $7000 for this horse. He sold him for that amount to a South American sportsman who actually jumped at the chance to make the purchase.

An idea of just how high horseflesh has mounted may be gleaned from the fact that C. S. Howard recently turned down an offer of $75,000 for Sea Sovereign. Also a bid of $65,000 for Gay Dalton was refused.

Carelton (Slim) Roles, who recently purchased Sirde for $30,000, has recently turned down several greater offers for the Oregon-bred 4-year-old. Sol Rutchick, trainer of the Havahome Stable, only a week or so ago paid $30,000 for three untried 2-year-olds.

The value of the cheap-selling plater has also advanced. Prices on platers of the $2000 to $10,000 variety have increased from 25 to 50 per cent.

Irving Gushen, who recently shipped Teen Age to Kentucky, received word that the mare has been bred to Peace Chance . . . Bob Frend, the starter at Suffolk Downs, reports that he is schooling between 20 and 25 thoroughbreds each day.

Jack Fitzgerald, publicity director at Tropical Park and Garden State, is visiting at his brother's home in Chevy Chase, Md. . . . Horace Wade, who did a good job handling public relations at Gulfstream Park, is in Chicago inspecting the horses he owns in partnership with Charley Martin, the well-known publisher of North Attleboro.

Flag Drill is the name of the latest W. W. Adams juvenile to show to advantage . . . Tom Jolley is due in at Suffolk Downs today with the horses which wintered at his farm in Tennessee.

Twin Boxers Fool Judges

ALLIANCE, Neb., May 4 (AP)—The Overton twins, Don and Dale, were the principals in the feature wrestling match at a junior golden gloves boxing and mat show.

The judges, however, couldn't give a verdict. They couldn't tell the twins apart.

Lou Nova Grabs Decisive Win

By BILL SMITH

Blond Lou Nova, 206, of Van Nuys, California, won every one of the 10 rounds as he pounded out a unanimous decision over Charley Eagle, 181, Waterbury, Ct., in the feature bout of the Callahan A. C. show at Mechanics Building last night, before 2000 fans.

Using left jabs and right hooks to the body, Nova had little trouble with Eagle and had the latter on the verge of a knockout in the last two rounds.

Earle Lowman, 206, Detroit, and Henry Jones, 208, of Philadelphia, met in the eight round semi-final with Jones collecting the vote of the three officials.

The portly Jones threw too many punches for the iron man and was on top throughout in a hard, interesting bout.

The popular George "Red" Doty, 151½ of Hartford, stopped Lepp Webster, 159, Fort Devens, in the sixth round. Webster received a cut over the left eye and it was a technical kayo for Doty.

Tony Petro, 154, of Hartford, slammed Johnny Weatherspoon, 155½, Fort Devens, to the canvas four times, before referee Joe Zapustas halted the contest and awarded a technical kayo verdict to Petro in 2:00 of the second round.

The opening fight, a six rounder went to Archie Gibbons, 139½, of Hartford, when he won a unanimous decision over Izzy Manor, 147, of Camp McKay.

CHICAGO, May 4 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox Baseball Club is not for sale, says Mrs. Grace R. Comiskey, president of the American League team.

Mrs. Comiskey spiked reports that the club was to be purchased by a syndicate headed by President Bill Veeck of the Milwaukee Brewers of the American Ass'n.

"There is no truth whatsoever in these reports," said Mrs. Comiskey, boss of the White Sox since the death of her husband, J. Louis Comiskey in 1939.

CLEVELAND, May 4 (AP)—Lou Boudreau, shortstop-manager of the Cleveland Indians, reported as re-classified to 1A, will be called for pre-induction physical examination "around June 15," the Plain Dealer said last night. Boudreau's sudden departure from St. Louis Wednesday night was followed by reports he had been re-classified from 2BF, in which he was placed by his Cleveland draft board. Rebuild

The first step toward returning Manila from a rubble-littered city, devastated by Jap occupancy and war, to its former beauty is started with the aid of U. S. Army steam shovels and bulldozers.

No Beer

The fabled Hofbrauhaus at Munich presents a drab and uninspiring picture now to these passing German civilians and this curious Yank soldier. Here, the beer once flowed freely to the strains of the Horst Wessel song, when Hitler and his Nazi leaders came yearly to celebrate party success.
